

Please keep the wireless number portability requirement in place. Verizon and other providers would love to make it as inconvenient as possible for consumers to switch to a different provider. Stopping portability would raise the opportunity cost because every time someone wanted to switch companies they would have to inform everyone about their phone number change.

Consumers should stay with a firm because of choice, not because of captivity factors like a lack of number portability. Please keep the plan to require wireless number portability. thank you.